

WELCOME

Welcome to Longueville House, a Luxury Irish Country House located in North County Cork. This unique wedding venue will deliver to your guests, a different wedding experience, pairing your unique personalities with the romance and understated elegance that Longueville House, our home, has to offer.

Boasting beautiful views of the Blackwater Valley, this 18th century listed Georgian Country House is secluded amid a picturesque and private 450 acre wooded estate, working farms and gardens. The estate also contains a 25 acre cider apple orchard used to produce on-site artisan cider, some which is double distilled into an apple brandy.

The Turner Conservatory built in 1865 is a stunning Victorian glass house where your wedding dreams can come true. This glass house is a unique addition to the house, full of history, stories and charm.

Longueville possesses buckets of wit and style, and owners William and Aisling O'Callaghan, open their doors to you as your hosts. Together with their experienced professional team, they hold your hand from the moment you step in the door to the the time you have to leave. You will no doubt have an unforgettable Wedding Day at Longueville House.

FOOD AT LONGUEVILLE HOUSE

Chef and Proprietor William O'Callaghan is at the centre of this field-to-fork ethos and is the driving force behind its working farm, extensive gardens and distillery, ensuring all this precious produce comes straight from the farm and gardens of Longueville, to the table.
